Rachelle Beaudry
Artist-painter

Rachelle Beaudry was born in Ottawa, Ontario in 1960.

In primary school, she decorated the blackboards for all events. In high school, she continued in Arts and Dramatic Arts. Over the years, she practiced sewing, knitting, woodworking and renovations and in 1994 she returned to school to obtain her Business Administration Degree. She spent more than 25 years of her career in real property in the federal government. She retired in May 2015.

While preparing for retirement, she was seeking a hobby that would be easier on the body than lifting and moving planks of wood to build furniture. She registered in a paint class with the Aylmer Art Council in 2012.

Rachelle's medium is oil. Her first painting was a winter scene. She progressed to still life and landscapes. Preferring the realist style and portraits, she moves to more complicated subjects. She is attracted by people's eyes and their meaning, the animal and his innocence, as well as humour. She now paints portraits and animals.
