"I have been passionate about art since a very young age. I use the language of art to express myself: my thoughts and ideas, my feelings and vision of the world. I represent figures, buildings, nature and everything else that life offers on canvas using my imagination and attitude to life. I believe that an artist, no matter a painter, actor, photographer, writer..., has a very special role: to show the "invisible", to draw attention to things that stay unnoticed on a daily basis. My style...well, my fans and customers call it "radism" (derived from my first name). I love impressionism, abstract, expressionism, cubism; often mix them and never put boundaries while creating."
